Worldwide Education Support to the Department of Defense

New CLEP exams

On July 1, 2010, the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) will launch two new exams: College Composition and College Composition Modular. These two exams will replace the following three exams:

- ◆ English Composition with Essay will be replaced by College Composition
- ◆ English Composition will be replaced by College Composition Modular.
- ◆ Freshman College Composition will be replaced by College Composition Modular College Composition includes multiple-choice items and two essays scored by CLEP. This exam will not be available in paper-based format.

College Composition Modular includes a multiple-choice section that may be supplemented by one of three options:

- ◆ An essay section provided by CLEP and scored by the student's college
- ◆ An essay section provided and scored by the student's college
- ◆ Another assessment or evaluation determined by the student's college, or no essay at all

This exam is intended for colleges that want a valid, reliable multiple-choice assessment and greater local control over the direct writing assessment.

These two exams measure candidates' knowledge of the fundamental principles of rhetoric and composition and their ability to apply the principles of standard written English. In addition, the exams require familiarity with research and reference skills.

The American Council on Education's College Credit Recommendation Service (ACE CREDIT) has evaluated and recommended the awarding of six credit hours, or the equivalent, for a score of 50 on both the CLEP

Longtime DANTES employee retires

Pat Landry, head of the Education Support Department at DANTES, is retiring on Jan.

30, 2010 after 27 years of federal civil service. She came to DANTES in December 1993 to manage the Reference Publications Program and moved on to work in three other positions during her 16 years at the command.

Programs she managed included serving as contracting officer's representative for the higher education contracts for American Council on Education (ACE), Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges (SOC), and Military Installation Voluntary Education Review (MIVER); DoD Worldwide Education Symposium 2000 (Dallas) and 2003 (Orlando); DoD liaison for the Advisory Councils on Military Education (ACME);

Training Team Leader; and will end her career as head of the Education Support Department. Other notable achievements accomplished while at DANTES include initiating and managing the first-ever Military Counselor Network (McNet) in the mid-90's which linked counselors around the world using a Listserv. She was a recipient of former Vice President Al Gore's "Golden Hammer" award for cost savings in the Reference Publications program.

Landry's earlier civil service work included positions held at the Naval Air Station Pensacola Complex at the Naval Aviation Depot (NADEP) Command as Manager, Learning Resource Center and Programmed Logic for Automated Teaching Operation (PLATO) programs; Naval Aviation Medical Institute (NAMI) Command; Chief of Naval Education and Training (CNET) Command; and at the former Naval Education and Training Program Management Support Activity (NETPMSA), Saufley Field, Fla.

Landry says that her time at DANTES has been the most rewarding of all her assignments. She hopes to stay connected with many friends she made throughout these past 27 years, plus enjoy traveling, gardening, genealogy research, and family time. "I have had some wonderful experiences working at DANTES. Most of all, I value the many friendships made with counselors, friends and acquaintances within the VolEd and higher education communities. Thanks for the memories," Landry said.

SOC's Burning Issue Summit II: Military student retention and degree completion—measuring success

Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges (SOC) invites college and military educators to participate in a “Burning Issues” Summit on Monday, Feb. 15, 2010, 1:30-3:30 pm as a pre-conference event at the Council of College and Military Educators (CCME) Annual Symposium in Nashville, Tenn.

This Burning Issues Summit will provide an opportunity for SOC Consortium member institutions to identify pervasive challenges and showcase promising practices in retaining military students and supporting them in their academic endeavors.

Panel discussions highlighting existing policies, practices, and tracking systems will provide promising models for measuring persistence toward degree completion.

Roundtable discussions will provide an opportunity for dialogue among institutions on successful retention and degree completion strategies.

This summit is an opportunity to identify potential solutions, exchange success stories and best practices, explore partnering opportunities, and hopefully generate policy resolutions or recommendations that will be communicated with DOD Continuing Education Programs and Voluntary Education Service leadership.

Burning Issues Summit is hosted by Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges. For more information about the event, contact Sonja Ferguson at (800) 368-5622, (202) 667-0079, or fergusons@aascu.org.

Academic, career counseling elements

While counseling military personnel to reach their academic goals, should I also provide career counseling? Military Education Center/Navy College Office counselors often times grapple with this burning question. Experts point out that career and academic counseling go hand-in-hand. If you are following the four important elements of counseling listed below, your guidance will take the individual well beyond academic counseling and at the same time ensure the individual is in a program that fits.

1. Begin by helping individuals gain greater self-awareness in such areas as interests, values, abilities, and personality. The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator®; Strong Interest and Skills Confidence Inventory®; DISCOVER®; Campbell Interest and Skill Survey™; Career Assessment Inventory™; Kuder® Journey; Self-Directed Search® are all available for military personnel, at no charge through DANTES and can be administered by the counselor.

2. Connect individuals to resources so they can become more knowledgeable about what is available to them. Programs like DISCOVER and the Kuder® Journey provide internal links to the Occupational Net (ONET) and the homepages for all colleges and universities.

3. Engage individuals in the decision-making process in order to help them choose academic courses/careers that fit their interests, values, abilities, and personality type.

4. Assist individuals to become active managers of the path they've chosen. Occasional follow-up sessions may help keep their focus and provide needed help when they attempt to balance various life roles.

Distance Learning sessions at Regional Workshop in San Diego

DANTES will hold a Regional Workshop in San Diego Jan. 26-28, 2010. Part of the workshop is devoted to distance learning (DL) innovations and trends in higher education that range from the virtual campus to e-Books and the Kindle. A special DL panel, representing a broad range of distance learning institutions, will focus on best practices, the military student, and student outcomes.

Participants will have the opportunity to engage DL panel members through utilization of the Principles of Good Practice for Higher Education Institutions Providing Voluntary Distance Education Programs to Members of the U.S. Armed Forces and Their Families, developed by a military-civilian task force, and the Military Student Bill of Rights, approved by the Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges (SOC) Advisory Board in 2007. The Military Student Bill of Rights delineates specific rights that military students can expect from truly military-friendly institutions such as honest and fair marketing and recruiting practices and appropriate student support services.

Other workshop topics include credentialing, National Test Centers, Wounded Warriors, Post 9/11 GI Bill, Online Academic Skills Course (OASC), and an optional Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) training session.

Time is running out. If you would like to register for this no-cost workshop, go to http://www.dantes.doded.mil/Dantes_web/training/registrationform.asp?formnum=1.

FY10 DEPH 2nd Quarter update available January

The 2nd Quarter update of the FY10 DANTES Examination Program Handbook (DEPH, Parts I and II), will be available online Jan. 1 to DANTES testing personnel with access to the Exams Management Information System (EMIS). Users can view, search and download the DEPH, as well as the calendar of national test dates for FY10 and other forms used by Test Control Officers.

The 2nd Quarter update of the FY10 DEPH will enable DANTES test administrators to become familiar with new test inventory procedures and how to access the new TCO Portal replacing EMIS and the Web-based DANTES Automated Test Inventory Program (DATIP). The TCO Portal is scheduled for activation in February 2010 as a password-protected, web-based centralized source housing all of the DANTES Examination Program applications. It will contain TCO profiles, the DEPH, test site look-up, test inventory instructions, test order and reimbursement forms, as well as Service and DANTES Test Site volume/pass rate reports.

To facilitate the quarterly test inventory requirement for stocking test sites, the 1st Quarter FY10 DEPH will remain available in EMIS through January.

Excelsior testing online at Ramstein AB, Germany

Online Excelsior testing opportunities are now available for Ramstein AB students and students throughout the Kaiserslautern military community. This process is a tremendous boost for students who are pursuing higher education.

In the past, students went to the Base Education Center to order the tests they needed for their degree programs. From the time the tests are ordered to when the tests are taken and mailed to Excelsior to be graded, it took at least six weeks for students to receive their grades.

With computer-based testing, all students have to do is contact the National Test Center at Ramstein AB and schedule their examinations. Upon completion, grades are available on-the-spot, based on the test score.

Students may choose from 51 exams in the arts and sciences, business, nursing, and education. According to the Deputy Education Services Officer, Sabrina Murray, "Students will have an added dimension in enhancing their abilities to complete their CCAF degrees and further professional development."

Excelsior College nursing examinations update

To correct any misunderstanding, please be advised that Excelsior College continues to offer funded nursing examinations through the DANTES program. The following titles have replaced the Nursing Concepts exam series and are available in both paper and pencil and computer-based format:

- ◆ Essentials of Nursing Care (Health Safety, Health Differences, Chronicity and Reproductive Health): #488-491
- ◆ Health Differences Across the Life Span 1, 2 and 3: #492-494
- ◆ Transition to the Registered Professional Nurse Role: #495

Candidates who are eligible for DANTES funding do not have to be enrolled in the Excelsior College associate in nursing degree program to take these exams through the DANTES program.

American College of Healthcare Sciences offers new graduate certificate programs

The American College of Healthcare Sciences (ACHS) now offers six graduate certificate programs in the field of complementary alternative medicine (CAM), which allow students to receive specialized training with less time and financial commitment found in their more traditional master's program.

ACHS graduate certificates require 12 credits of study, or four 16-week courses for completion, and are available in the fastest growing integrative healthcare modalities. In addition to a Graduate Certificate in Aromatherapy, ACHS also offers a Graduate Certificate in Nutrition, Graduate Certificate in Anatomy and Physiology, Graduate Certificate in Complementary Alternative Medicine, Graduate Certificate in Herbal Medicine, and Graduate Certificate in Botanical Safety.

Today, more and more people are turning to preventative care as a solution to rising healthcare costs. The healthcare industry needs trained professionals. With an ACHS graduate certificate, healthcare professionals can:

- ◆ Enhance their employability and job growth with each specialized certificate
- ◆ Train to meet the growing demand for educated and trusted CAM professionals
- ◆ Increase ancillary services offered, thereby increasing clients and income
- ◆ Educate others about wellness and complementary alternative medicine

Graduate certificate programs are open to new students, as well as current ACHS students, and can be completed while pursuing a Masters of Science in Complementary Alternative Medicine. ACHS accepts all military tuition assistance, Veterans Benefits, and the MyCAA Scholarship funding. American College of Healthcare Sciences is the only accredited, fully online college offering degrees, diplomas, and career-training certificates in complementary alternative medicine. Founded in 1978, ACHS is committed to exceptional online education and is recognized as an industry leader in holistic health education worldwide. PMI forms an MOU with DANTES

Project Management Institute (PMI) recently formed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with DANTES. This MOU allows military members access to paper or electronic exam delivery of the following exams:

- ◆ Project Management Professional (PMP®)
- ◆ Program Management Professional (PgMP®)
- ◆ PMI – Risk Management Professional (PMI-RMP®)
- ◆ PMI – Scheduling Professional (PMI-SP®)

According to PMI's web site, their primary goal is to advance the practice, science and profession of project management throughout the world in a conscientious and proactive manner so that organizations everywhere will embrace, value and utilize project management and then attribute their successes to it. The organization was founded in 1969 and has approximately 420,000 members and credential holders.

Many military members have requested DANTES assistance in obtaining access to these credentialing exams. Working through Prometric with PMI, these exams are now available through the DANTES Test Sites and base-sponsored National Test Centers. To find out about PMI, visit the DANTES Web site <http://www.dantes.doded.mil> and click on the Credentialing Examination Program section or look up test centers at http://www.dantes.doded.mil/Dantes_web/certification/tcl.htm.
